

United Way of Cache Valley is excited to Announce New Director

Hi, my name is Jimmy Birman. I'm the new Director of the United Way of Cache Valley. I have lived in Cache Valley Utah for 6 ½ years now with my best friend and wife, Shannon Birman and my 4 kids. Amelia is 19, Hayden is 17, Olivia is 15, and Eliza is 12. I'm passionate about hiking, traveling, good food, watching my kids grow up and Washington Husky football (Sorry Utah State, I still support and love you too). This is the 6 state I have lived in; I started my journey in California, Washington, Nevada, Arizona, Wyoming, and now Utah. I love Utah and especially Cache Valley because of the beauty, the amazing people, and all the outdoor recreation right in our backyard.

I'm passionate about always trying to find ways to provide hope and inspiration in someone's life and in our community. You never know what type of impact you will make with every interaction you have with people within our community. I 'am extremely excited to take this passion as I join with the United Way of Cache Valley in order to collaborate with our community to truly reinforce education, health, and financial stability.

Thank you to the board of directors of the UWCV for allowing me this opportunity to represent them, our agency partners, and the community.

Sincerely

Jimmy Birman
